Forward

This big world was full of happenings during our nine months together in 1966 and 1967. . . the war in Viet Nam expanded. . . England's Twiggy led the fashion rage in her mini-skirts. . . new information concerning Kennedy's assassination was probed. . . Expo '67 opened in Montreal. . . the entertainment world lost Walt Disney. . . cases of congressional ethics were opened. . . the singing group of the Monkees stayed on the charts, and Frank Sinatra remained popular, too. . . our space program was set back after the tragic death of three Apollo astronauts in a test run. . . "Mission: Impossible" received television's Emmy. . . soccer slowly developed as a new sport. . . "A Man for All Seasons" was awarded the Oscar as best play of the year, and "Born Free" was selected the best song of the year. . . youth experimented with the hallucinatory drug LSD while scientists sought to study its harmful effects. . . Medicare emerged. . . television, railroads, and truckers were involved in strikes. . .

As students, we were aware of these happenings, but we were concerned with another world--a very special world that lasts four short years, yet plays an important part in our future. In this special world we were concerned with what to wear to Sweetheart, who would win the district tournaments, when would class rings arrive, how did we do on the biology test, what should our prom theme be, signing senior pictures, meeting a deadline and finishing our assignments. . .

It is this small, special world of high school that we want to present to you by means of words and pictures. You have been a part of it--we want you to remember it as it was in 1966 and 1967. Come along with us. . . . Into our world of A.H.S.

Faculty Leads Our World

Sharing their knowledge of the past and present, and helping us to prepare for the future are the goals which the faculty members aspire to. At times, the students do not fully understand the motives and reasons for their actions. And other times their inspiring methods make lasting impressions. These educators move among us, explaining, clarifying, and giving of what they know. At times they deem it necessary to apply disciplinary measures, such as giving detention for speaking out of turn, or running laps for building up the stamina and morale of athletes.

Our faculty was also a great help in going along with students to support school activities and encourage team spirit.

Student Council Helps Govern School

A boy and a girl of good leadership represented each class in Alcester High's government. Ward Peterson, Student Council president, led the student council in their many accomplishments this year.

These representatives sold book covers and portfolios to the students. The book covers and portfolios featured a picture of Alcester High and the Cub emblem on the covers.

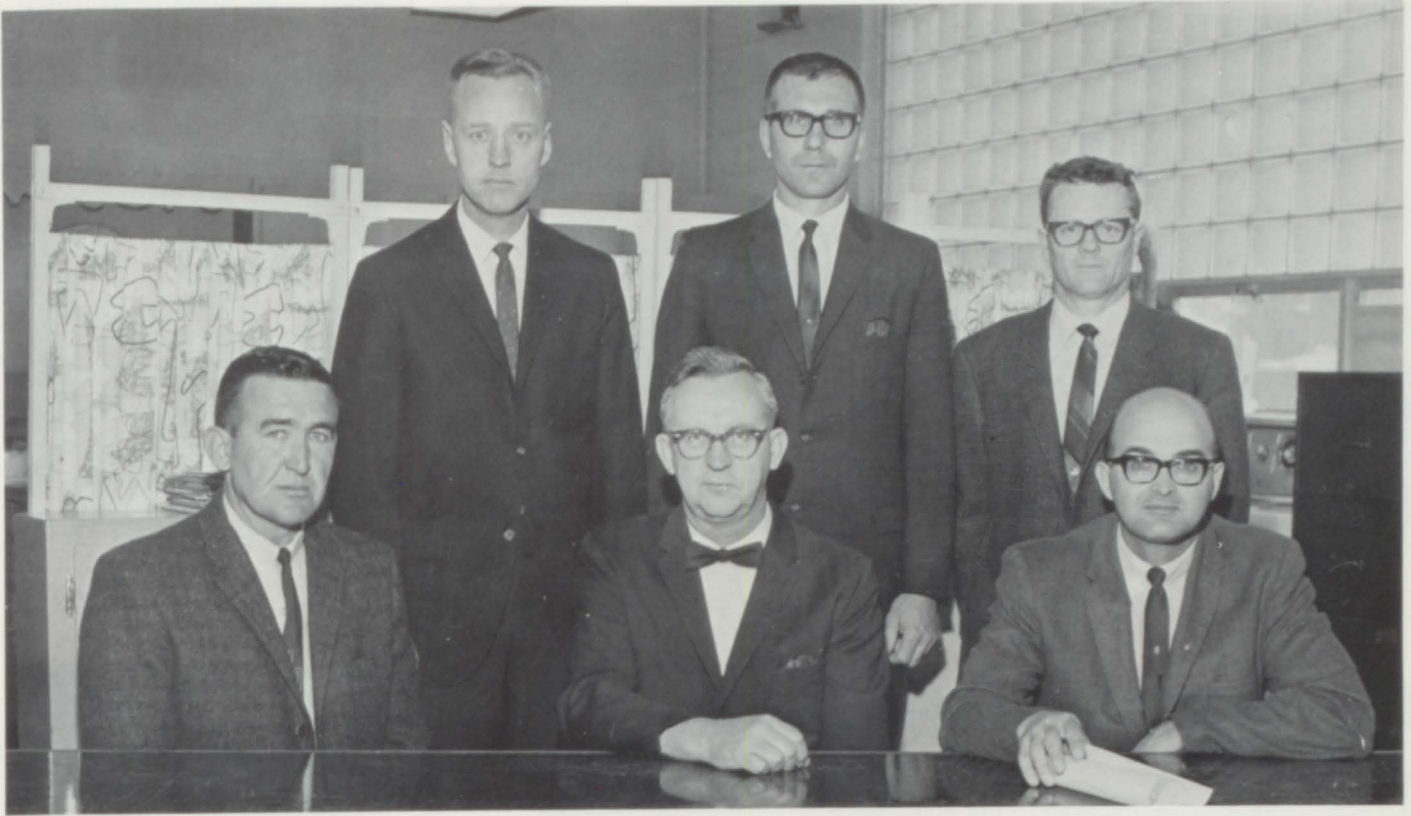

With the aid of the Student Council advisor, Mr. Dobberstein, the group entertained the student body with a Christmas party of games and carol singing. They also organized and planned the Homecoming Dance and Sweetheart Dance.

R. Riherd, vice president; W. Peterson, president; J. Moberg, secretary direct Student Council activities.

School Board Concentrates on Education Policies

Poor past year

Construction of the new football field and the building of a new addition to the school were the outstanding projects promoted by the local school board this past year. Reviewing blueprints and building plans took up long hours of research and discussions. Even rolling and laying sod on the football field were part of their activities. Devoted hours to make our school a place of greater educational opportunities and development also constituted a major part of this group's work.

The meeting didn't review

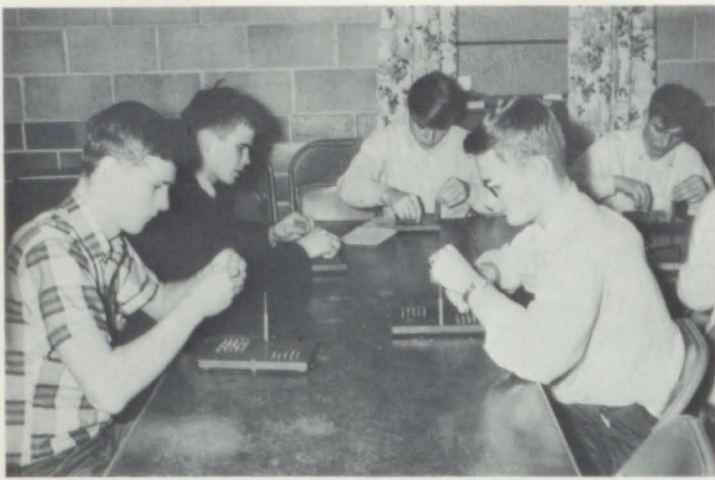

Monthly and other special meetings were regularly held. Each regular meeting reviewed the financial reports and carried out other matters of immediate concern. One of the major and rather controversial issues discussed included the reorganization of school districts. Annual duties include the hiring of personnel for the school district, planning the budget, and levying taxes.

N. Westin helps with the book work.

Seniors Take GATB Skill Tests

The doors of AHS were opened to the class of '67 for the last time on August 29. The forty-one seniors were kept busy with English, American Government, Sociology, Economics, Advanced Algebra, Trigonometry, Physics, Home Economics, Shorthand, Agriculture, German, and Art.

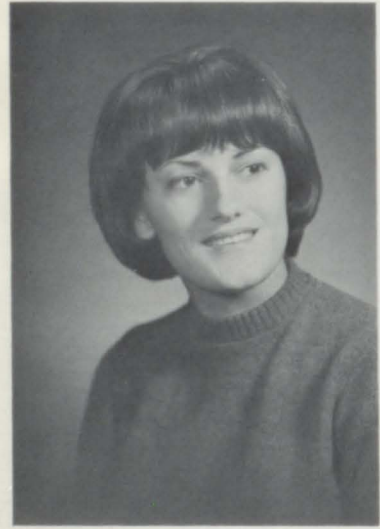

The senior play, "Onions in the Stew" was given in November, and in April, the seniors enjoyed "Skip Day" in Omaha.

The concluding highlight of the year occurred May 6 when the juniors honored the seniors with a banquet and a dance.

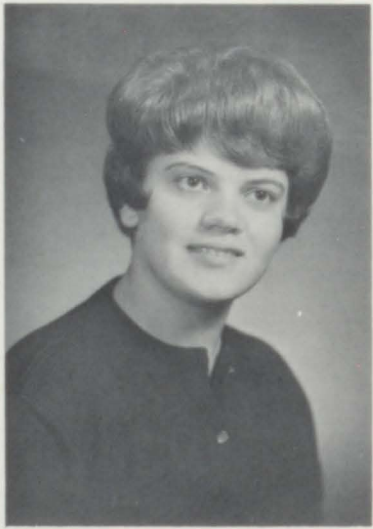

The class of 1967 walked through the halls of Alcester High for the last time on May 26, the day of their Commencement.

Juniors Receive Class Rings

The 1966-67 schoolyear has been the busiest and most exciting since the juniors started high school. Each student was kept busy with the required courses of English III and American History as well as their electives. These included Typing, German, Sociology, Economics, Home Economics, Agriculture, Physics, Advanced Algebra, and Shorthand. Art was also offered for the first time this year. During the basketball season, the juniors and their class advisers, Mrs. Bartunek and Mr. Schnabel, managed the concessions at each home game. In the spring, the class fund was put to use as the juniors presented a play and sponsored the Junior-Senior Banquet. Receiving their class rings was also a high-spot for the juniors this year.

One of their most exciting experiences was entering biology projects in the Science Fair.

Freshmen Have Largest Class in A.H.S.

In the fall of 1966, an all-time high of freshmen entered the world of AHS. These bewildered students found many new experiences as they began to catch the routine of high school life. These students soon found their classrooms, knew their teachers, and had made many new friends. But there were several things that would take a little more getting used to. There were so many people in the halls between classes that it was a struggle to get to your locker. There were things like the long lunch line, detention, quizzes and homework. Algebra, General Science, Home Economics, Agriculture, English, and General Math were the subjects offered to the freshmen. The freshmen also realized that high school was not all work but that it offered many enjoyments through the various clubs and music groups. They also participated in athletics or supported the teams by their presence at the games and by their yelling.

Entering class are freshman officers, G. Anderson, secretary; G. Johnson, vice president; M. Day, treasurer, B. Nilson, president.

New Faces Appear on Staff

Beyond the classrooms and extra-curricular activities we find our school staff coping with the many everyday problems with which they are faced.

Our cooks ask themselves, "Will it be taverns or meatballs..." The four busdrivers wonder, "Are those roads too icy today?" Mr. Donovan Larson, our school secretary asks, "What goes on the announcements this morning?" And the janitor, in the midst of commotion, wonders if he should scrub the floor again.

Often they are found working over weekends and holidays, too. These people behind the scenes are the ones who add those little 'extras' to our routine schedule. Long and often difficult hours are put in by the staff and the students fully appreciate their services.

Our world of activities is based on striving to develop new and old talents. The challenges they face and the satisfactions they gain now can be used to make them worthwhile persons in their future worlds.

Cubette Tells Story of Our World

Members of Cubette staff campaign for higher sales.

Memorable moments and incidents of the past years are recaptured in the historic pages of the Cubette. Through words and pictures classroom and other school activities are relived by students who played a part and shared in the making of those many contrasting moments. There were times of worry, tenseness, and cramming for tests. And then there were those moments of gaiety and fun and having good times with classmates and friends.

Devising a new technique for planning and putting together a new and different annual was the task which the Cubette staff, under the supervision of Mr. Thomas, attempted to undertake.

At the opening of the year, staff members attended a one day workshop in Sioux Falls and the yearly press conference at Brookings. There, fresh and original ideas on building a better school yearbook were accumulated.

The junior staff learn to make well-balanced yearbook pages.

Dakota Keeps Students Informed

Students eagerly await the last Friday of every month to receive their new Dakotas.

This fall several members of the staff, accompanied by Mr. Ptak, attended the annual press conference in Brookings. This gave the staff new and original ideas in writing stories, typing stencils, and setting up their pages.

The editors and typists teach underclassmen the techniques involved in planning and preparing the monthly publication of the Dakota. Long and often difficult hours are spent solving the different problems which occasionally arise.

As well as being read by the students at Alcester, copies are sent to various business places of Alcester and other towns; other schools in this locality, and alumni away at college.

Librarian's Specialty -- Books

The library is the "world of information" for the students at Alcester High School. It contains many fiction books pertaining to sports, biographies, histories, sciences, and adventures. It also has a very wide-ranged periodical section. The magazines are classed from business and sports to the latest news. The library also has many of the standard resources such as encyclopedias and many dictionaries.

There are ten librarians under the supervision of Mrs. Aaen, who keeps the library open during nearly all periods of the day. They check out and repair books and magazines in the library. The librarians are kept very busy when the new books arrive and they catalogue them. The time they spend is educational to them and helpful to the students.

Often the library also serves as a "study hall" and an area for working declam.

Librarian M. Ludwig catalogs new books.

Students enjoy convenience of the library.

Expressions are Varied in Declam

"Not what?, but what! Look more haughty with less movement of the head." These are some of the lines that the speech directors, Mrs. Aaen and Mrs. Lappegard taught the many declamation students this year.

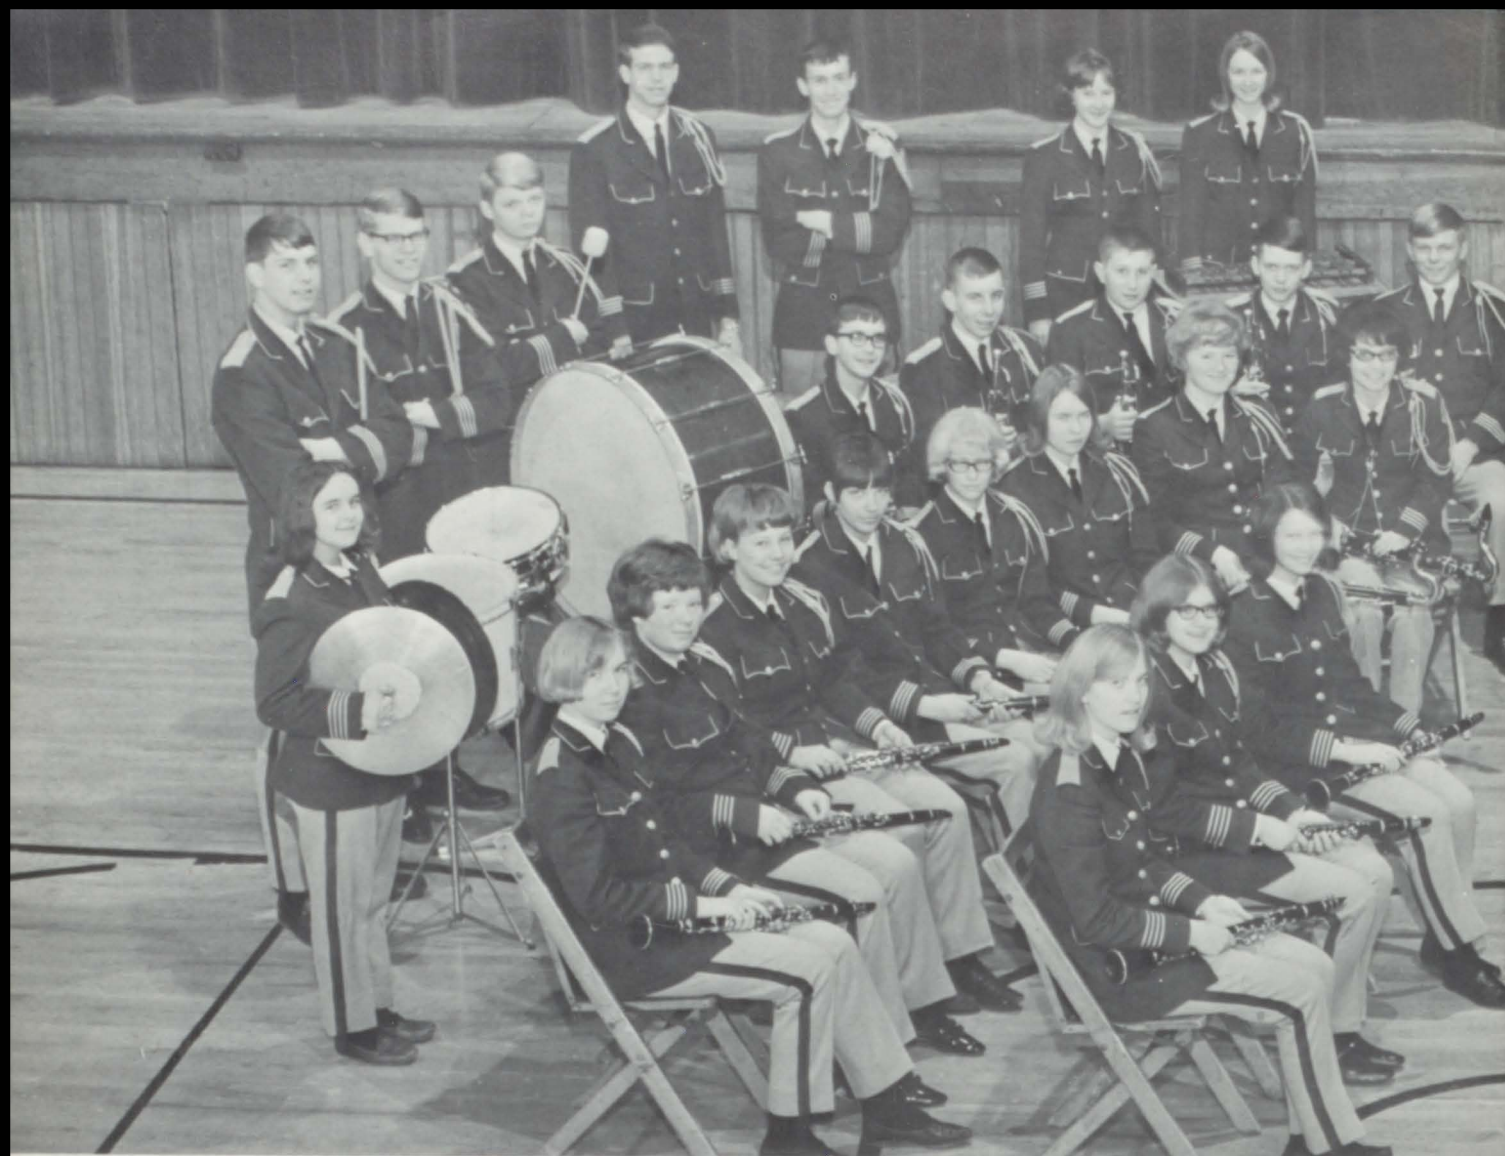

Early in the fall a cry and sometimes a moan was heard in such places as the storage room, language laboratory, and the English rooms as the declam students practiced their pieces.

All the hard work and the many disappointments resulted in many excellent and some superior ratings. The four local winners pictured at the left went to the district contest in Beresford and Mary Hendricks went on further to the regional contest in Sioux Falls.

From speaking their declamation pieces, the twenty participants learned and enjoyed many new discoveries in speech.

Mrs. Lappegard advises J. Newman on her Declam piece.

Marching, Concerts and Contests Fill Band Hours

Around 12:45 on a typical school day one can see many of the 47 band members in the vicinity of the gym. Some are busy setting up their chairs and stands, some are climbing up the bleachers to get their horns, and a few girls may be talking to their boyfriends in the hall before classes start. Eventually by 12:50 everyone is pretty well organized and ready to play a warm-up exercise from the "Treasury of Scales." The rest of the period may be spent practicing for Christmas and spring concerts or perfecting "Folk Song Suite" and "Presidio" for contest at Yankton. After 45 minutes of playing, the musicians start eyeing the clock, and finally the bell rings. Horns are snapped in their cases, and Mr. Olsen can be seen dragging his podium back to its storage place.

During the year many nights are spent at school by soloists and groups practicing for Contest or All-State chorus. Some musicians played in tournament band, tried out for All-State band, or attended the instrumental clinic.

In the early fall the band could be heard drilling for Dakota Days in Vermillion. Our minds are refreshed of the meaning of "parade rest", "countermarch", and "cadence", while our feet long for the command "dismissed".

The A.H.S. band added a musical background to the sports season when they performed at football games. "Wheels" was the theme for the Homecoming half-time marching show. At the basketball games the band played "Sweet Georgia Brown" as the Cubs warmed up, and other songs that pleased the sports fans.

Students of music are awaiting the completion of the new band and practice rooms to be used in future years.

Musicians Produce Diversified Sounds

Chorus members sang "Adoramus Te" and "Build Thee More Stately Mansions" for contest at Yankton on April 15. Mr. Olsen directs practices seventh period on Tuesday and Friday; Margery Westin is the pianist.

Every Monday and Thursday at 2:30 girls stream into the gym for girl's glee, under the direction of Mr. Olsen and the accompaniment of Deborah Herbrandson. The hour is spent in preparation for concerts and contest. Their selections for large group contest were "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings" and "Nocturne".

FHA-FFA--Learning Today

"Builders of homes, homes for America's future..." this creed, repeated by loyal FHA'ers at monthly meetings, symbolizes their deep concern for planning for their future lives. Red and white are their colors...red for the courage and determination to succeed, and white for the purity and integrity of youth.

A basket social, Daddy-Date night, the 8th grade tea, a Mother-Daughter Banquet, and a rollerskating party co-sponsored by the local FFA Chapter were a few of the outstanding events of the year. The group also had a scholarship fund and were present at several conventions.

for a Better Tomorrow

It is stated at the beginning of every meeting that the FFA is a national organization. Steve Wilson, Lynn Frick, and Eldon Wilson were privileged to see how true this is when they were selected to represent our chapter at the National FFA Convention at Kansas City, Missouri.

Some of the other activities that kept the chapter members busy during the year were managing the refreshment stand at the home football games, sponsoring the FFA Father-Son Banquet and the FFA-FHA rollerskating party, as well as attending many livestock judging schools and contests.

“Autumn Leaves” is Homecoming Theme

H. Van Ballegooyan and M. Ludwig robe the King and Queen.

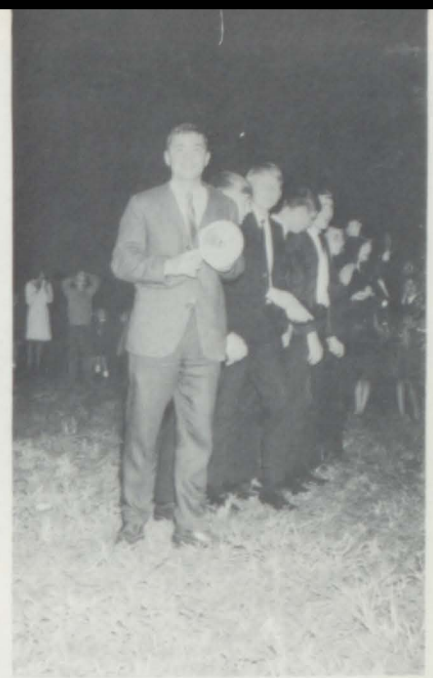

Autumn leaves of vivid yellows and bright reds was the setting for the 1966 Homecoming Coronation on September 29th. The Girls Glee club softly sang "Autumn Leaves" as the members of the royal court advanced towards the decorated stage. A deep hush fell across the room as Steve Wilson announced the king and queen. A glow of happiness showed on the faces of Doug and Janet as Miriam Zweifel and Bernard Van Engen crowned the happy couple. Cheers were heard from the crowded auditorium when Doug placed the robe back on Janet's shoulders after it had unexpectedly slipped off.

While Janet and Doug sat on their throne under the bright fall-colored tree, each of the four classes presented some form of entertainment in their honor. At the pep rally the burning of the "A", symbolic of the firing spirit of the Alcester High student body, brought the coronation activities to an end.

The bonfire after the program was blazing with spirit and liveliness. Students raised their voices in support of the Cubs. The boys on the team each added their comments on what they hoped would be a successful outcome.

A tense and rousing atmosphere set the mood for Friday night, despite the cold and damp weather. Although the Cubs put up a good stand, the Dell Rapids Quarriers proved to be too much and left with victory on their side.

Although the feelings were lowered, everyone knew that the team had played with the best of their ability and with a show of good sportsmanship. The dance, featuring the 'Grapes of Wrath', also helped to cheer up the students, and enliven their dispositions.

Reign

Friendliness, courtesy, and ambitiousness are three adjectives which describe our Homecoming King Douglas Quinn and Queen Janet Moberg. Their personalities and ability to get along with others resulted in many friends and the honor of being chosen as royalty.

If one word were to be chosen to describe Doug, 'sports' would probably fit him best. Doug actively participates in football, basketball, track, and golf. Besides lettering in each of these sports, Douglas was named to All-Conference in football, golf champion, best defensive player in football, and Athlete of the Year. His school life was however, also centered around being on the Dakota and Cubette staffs, in A-Club, having parts in the junior, the senior, and the one-act plays, and taking the responsibility of being a class officer during his freshman and junior years.

Likewise, Janet also deserves recognition. A large part of Janet's time was spent as an officer in FHA, being editor of the Dakota, taking leading parts in the class plays, and rendering her musical talents in girl's glee, chorus, and madrigal. She contributed to the spirit at games by being both a "B" and "A" team cheerleader. Her other activities--working on the Cubette staff and in Declam, and honors--serving as a class officer and on the Student Council, being alternate DAR representative, Union County American Legion Essay winner, pom-pom girl, sophomore Homecoming attendant, and prom waitress also provided Janet with a busy schedule.

Seniors Enjoy Special Activities

Final days of high school bring many sentimental and memorable moments to a senior. These are the years that will be forever remembered and the hours spent in fellowship with classmates and teachers will have a lasting influence on each young citizen. As graduation approaches, they find themselves stepping into a vaster and more complex world. With them they bring remembrances of past high school days.

To conclude their four years of hard work and fun, the class entered into many activities frequented by the seniors only. As a result of saving their money, they were able to have a skipday. For this occasion, they chose to take a chartered bus to Omaha. There the hours were spent touring various educational places, spending free time shopping, eating, and seeing "The Bible" at the Cinema.

Another activity was a tea honoring the senior girls and given by the RLD club. Along with several other events, the class of 1967 also left their impression by presenting introductory speeches at the PTA Senior Recognition Night.

The guests were then entertained by the "Sounds". Mr. Kirsch presented the after-dinner speech entitled "Changes", and past memories as well as glimpses of the future were portrayed with the reading of the will, the history, and the class prophecy. Barbara Wahl served as the Mistress of Ceremonies.

The evening was continued as the "Chateaux" set the mood for an evening of dancing. Following the prom, students and dates attended the movie "Out of Sight" at the theatre in Hawarden. To conclude an evening filled with precious memories, many guests returned to Acapulco for an early morning breakfast.

Seniors Present "Onions in the Stew"

"Mom, Dad, my friends are here. We're gonna have a weekend slumber party".

"The tide was coming in, we got soaked".

"Where hearts were high and fortunes low--and onions in the stew" was the mood of the play "Onions in the Stew" which was presented by the Senior class on November third and fourth. This comedy, written by Betty MacDonald, shows a rare understanding of young people and a valuable lesson in getting something worthwhile from live. Their isolated life begins one summer on a sparsely populated Pacific island where the family has decided to live. Its plot centers mainly around the many quarrels of the MacDonald family and their friends.

Long hours of practice were put into the play by the members of the cast under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Lappegard. Warren Wilkens, stage manager, and his crew, the make-up committee, the advertising and business managers, and many other groups contributed much to the production and presentation of the comedy.

All-School Play Cast Dramatize "The Ugly Duckling"

The princess finds her Prince Charming and happiness comes to all.

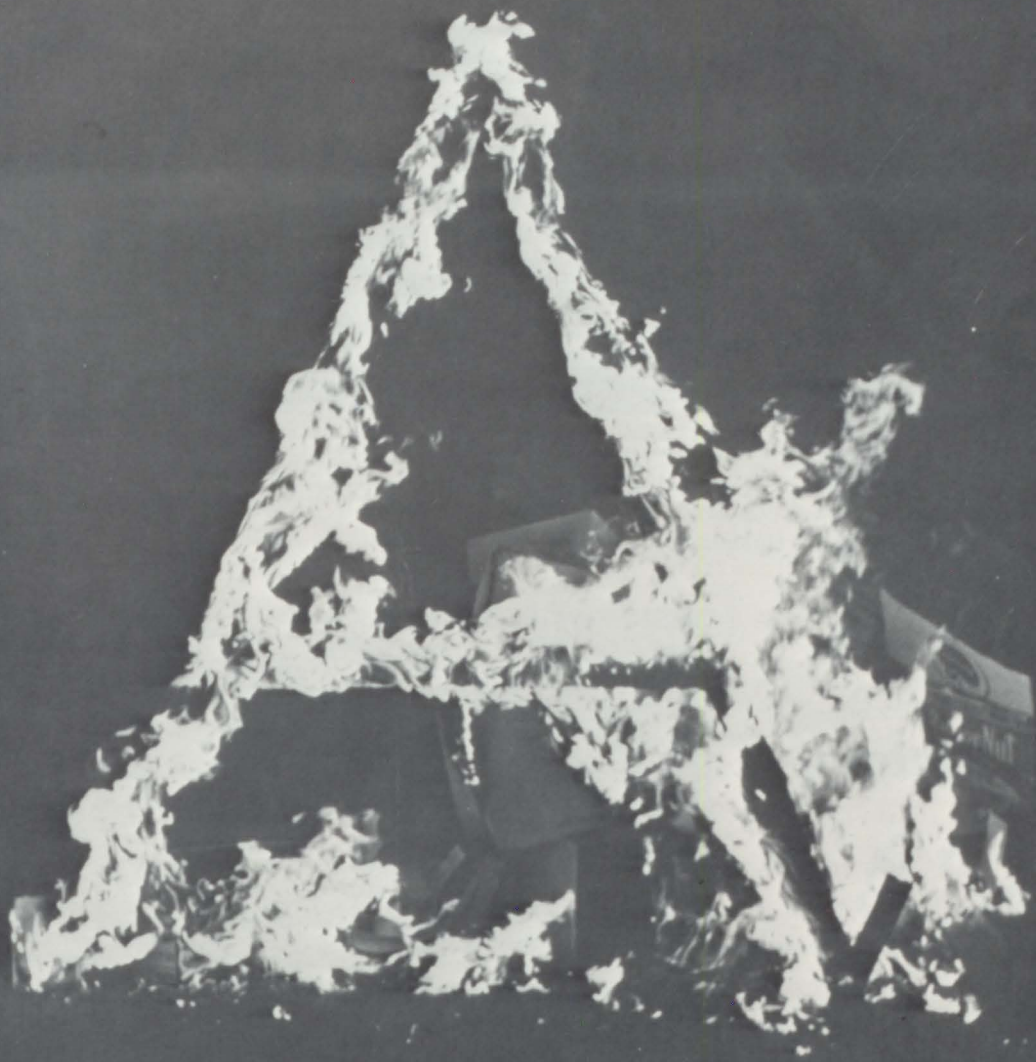

The romantic comedy of a princess who turned beautiful only after finding her long searched-for love was the plot of the One-Act Play, "The Ugly Duckling" by A. A. Milne. This play, rated excellent in the district contest, was under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Lappegard.

Reverend Donald Asman and Mrs. Lappegard chauffeured the cast, the costumes, and the props to Yankton College for their performance in February. Following the performance three judges made constructive criticisms on their acting. After the play the students were relieved to remove their make-up, having worn it all morning.

Yankton High School took top honors when they received superior acting awards for their play "The Bald Soprano".

The student body of Alcester High School also viewed "The Ugly Duckling" at an assembly on a later date.

A-Club Purchases Glass Backboards

Energetic lettermen worked hard ~~in order~~ to earn money for the purchasing of glass backboards for the auditorium. They also spent considerable time ~~towards~~ constructing the new football and track field.

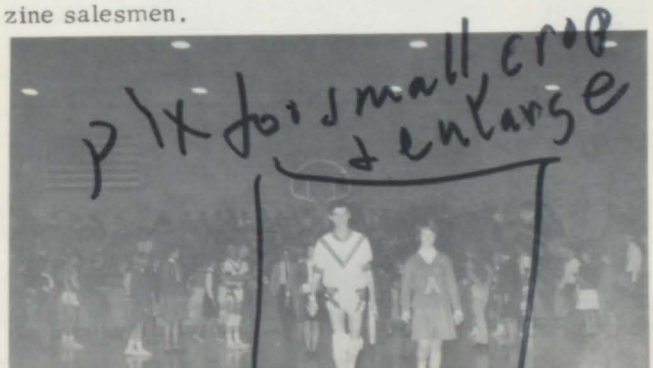

Most of their funds were obtained through the selling of magazines. Being the top salesmen out of five groups in the school, A-Club was honored to have the cover girl and cover boy representing them.

To be a member of A-Club, one must have excelled in at least one sport and have earned a gold letter. A boy lettering four times in any one sport or being named to an all-conference team earns a blue letter.

B-Team Trains for Varsity Positions

Determination, teamwork, and sportsmanship are just a few of the ingredients that go into the success of a ball club. The Alcester B-team worked for these and many more.

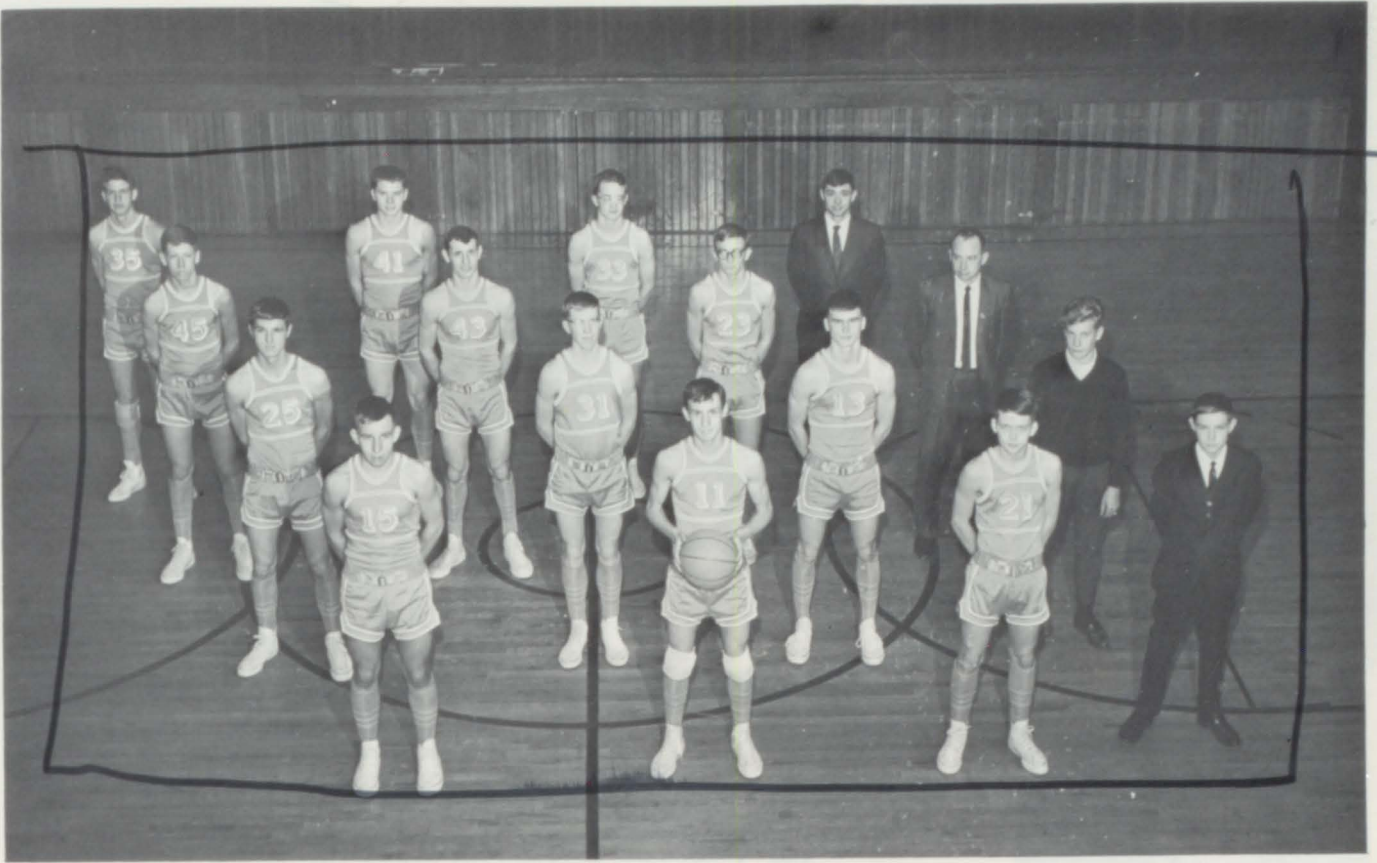

Much time was spent in practice, in teaching the newcomers the fundamentals of basketball and on improving the skills of the older boys.

With this kind of determination, things may prove promising in the future years of basketball at AHS.

"Wait until next year!" was the cry of the Cubs' fans and the team members after many games last year. Determination, hard work, and experience turned the tables this year and the Cubs were rewarded by a more successful season.

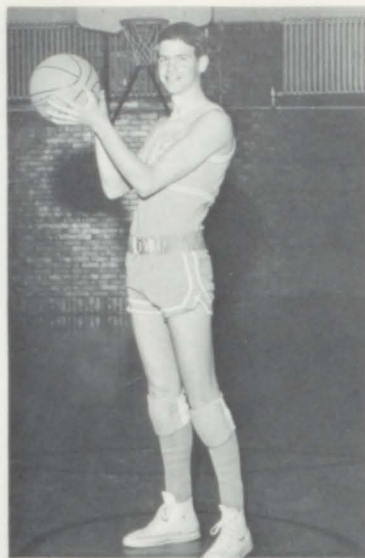

Coached by Mr. Glen Kroger, the Alcester Cubs' A-basketball squad rounded out the season of play with a record of nine wins and nine losses.

The high-scoring game of the season ended by downing the Irene Cardinals with a final score of 71-64. Our low-scoring game of the season ended with a victory for the Beresford Watchdogs with the scoreboard showing a final 50-34.

With the return of four lettermen, the Cubs are looking forward to a successful season next year.

Thin-clads Train on New Athletic Field

Shown are the qualifiers for the State Track Meet: T. Nilson running the two-mile, R. Riherd running the 880, and J. St. Pierre running the mile.

The track season of 1967 proved to be very successful for the Cubs. The Cubs scored well in all the track meets they participated in. The future looks good for the Cubs because there were only three seniors on the squad.

Rick Riherd established two school records this season. The 880 run in 2:04.7 and the broad jump 19'9 1/2". Tom Nilson set a record in the two-mile run with a time of 10:32. The mile and two-mile relay teams just missed setting records in many of the meets.

James St. Pierre, Tom Nilson, and Rick Riherd represented Alcester in the State Track Meet. James in the mile run, Tom in the two-mile run, and Rick in the 880 yard run.

Next season the Cubs will have one of the better tracks in the area and therefore many records should be broken.

Our World of Sports is Diversified

True sportsmanship comes only with teamwork and the personal initiative of each individual. Their degree of achievement depends on their degree of self-discipline and willingness to develop their athletic prowess. Success comes only with hard work, sacrifice, and a little bit of luck. Besides exercise, an athlete must realize the importance of proper rest and good nutrition, so that he can meet the challenges of tough competition.

To challenge our athletes, Alcester High School has offered several different areas in the field of sports. Some of these included football, basketball, track, physical education, golf, cross-country, and weight-lifting.

As long as we offer competition, our sports-minded youth will continue to meet the demands that sports require.

Cheerleaders Accelerate School Spirit

Accelerating school spirit was the main goal of the "A" and "B" cheerleaders. To keep up high spirit, the group attended all home and out-of-town football and basketball games, keeping up continuous noise to encourage the players. To further instill enthusiasm, pep assemblies each Friday were conducted, this being one of the groups main responsibilities.

Many long, and hard hours of practice proved worthwhile as the teams responded with victories.

The nervousness before the pep assemblies, and the tensness of the close games; the exhilaration of victory and the agony of defeat are now the cherished memories of each cheerleader.

Pep Club Supports the Cubs

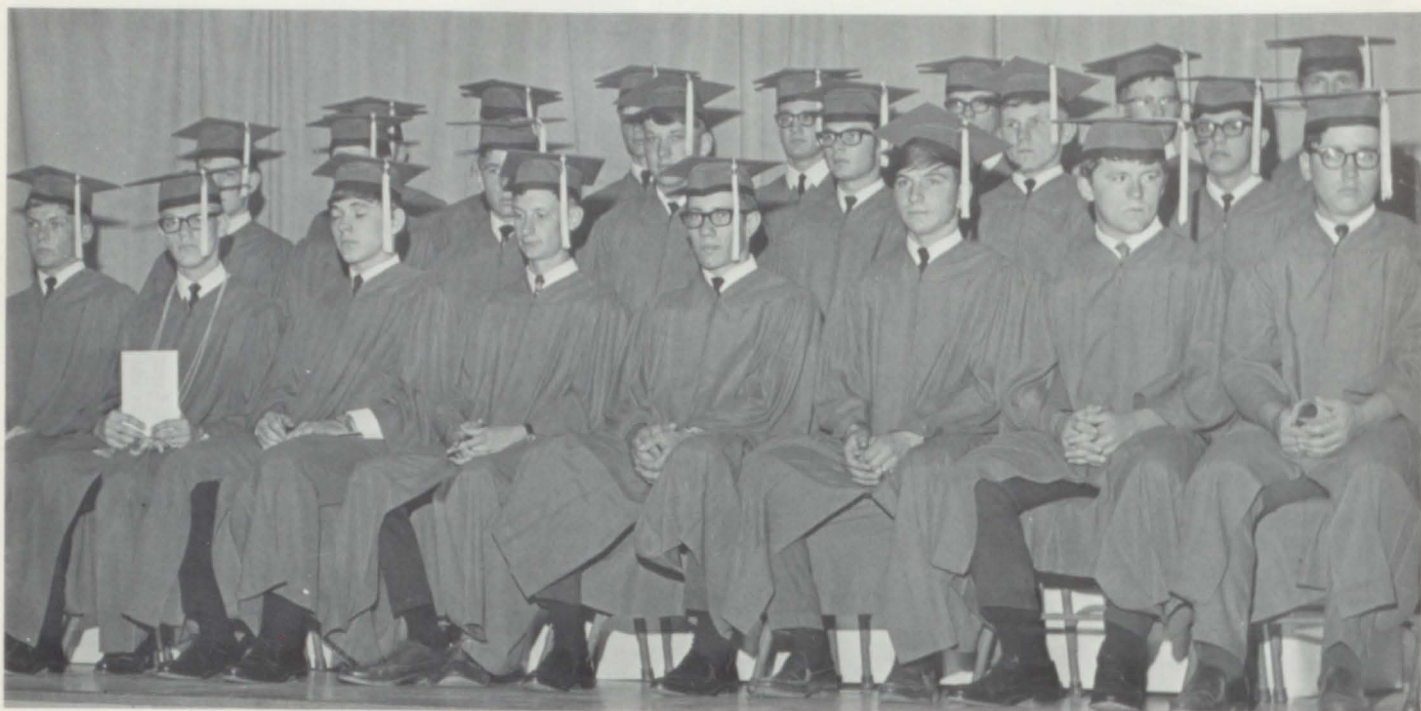

Contributing to this year's improved athletic teams was the hard work, yelling and cheering of the Pep Club girls. The efforts of this energetic group of girls paid off when our team won. After each game, the happiness of victory or the sullenness of defeat could be seen on each girl's face.

The Pep Club, led by Marylee Ludwig and advised by Mrs. Bartunek had charge of the coat check again this year. Each girl took her turn working to provide funds for the club's treasury.

Any yearbook staff may have headlines, deadlines, pasting, typing, picture-taking, decisions, disappointments, fun, friendships--but recording in words and pictures, between two hard covers, the events of the world of Alcester High School 1966-1967 belongs only to the CUBETTE staff. We sincerely hope that what we have put between these two covers will maybe, for a few minutes, make the 1967 world of A.H.S. stand still for you who lived it.

As editor, I want to express my sincere thanks to my great staff, advisor Mr. Thomas, all our sponsors, Tollinger Studio, and especially to all the people who made up the world of Alcester High 1966-1967; for it was you who gave us the material for this--the 1967 CUBETTE.
