

ALCESTER-HUDSON CLASS OF

HOW WE LEFT OUR
MARK

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial statements. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses and income. The document also highlights the need for regular reconciliation of bank statements and the company's records to identify any discrepancies early on.

In addition, the document provides a detailed breakdown of the accounting cycle, from identifying the accounting entity to preparing financial statements. It explains how each step contributes to the overall accuracy and reliability of the financial data. The document also includes a section on the classification of assets and liabilities, providing examples and explanations for each category.

The second part of the document focuses on the practical application of these principles. It includes a series of exercises designed to help students understand how to record and classify transactions. These exercises cover a wide range of scenarios, from simple sales and purchases to more complex transactions involving multiple parties and assets. The document also provides a step-by-step guide to preparing a balance sheet and an income statement, showing how the data from the accounting cycle is used to create these financial statements.

Finally, the document concludes with a summary of the key points discussed throughout the text. It reiterates the importance of accuracy and consistency in accounting and encourages students to apply these principles in their own work. The document also includes a list of references for further reading and a glossary of key terms used throughout the text.

Each year students filter through the halls of AHHS, each one making different memories and new stories to tell. In the 6 years students will spend in this building, each will leave their own imprint on AHHS. Six years can seem lengthy, but in the long-run, it's only a snippet of our lives. It's important, as students, we make the most memories we can and leave our own mark on AHHS. Live it up, you only have so long before it's all just a story. In the words of the famous Mark Twain, "Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things that you didn't do, than by the ones you did do. So throw off the bowlines. Sail away from the safe harbor. Catch the trade winds in your sails." How did you leave your mark?

Every year a new class of seniors gets to be at the top of the totem pole. The class of 2015 got the opportunity to say a lot of hello's and also a lot of goodbye's with new students constantly coming and going throughout their years at AHHS. It was their cohesive nature that made each adjustment go smoothly. The class of 2015 left several different marks at AHHS during their time at here, some that may always be remembered. As the seniors go their separate ways next year, their memories will live on forever in the halls of AHHS.

Ariyanna Rose Miller

July 15, 1998 - March 3, 2015

Ariyanna Rose Miller did more than touch everybody's lives here at Alcester-Hudson. In terms of leaving a mark at Alcester-Hudson, Ariyanna left the biggest one on our hearts. From her smile, which was always on her face, to her laugh you could always here chiming through the halls, there wasn't a time she wasn't making someone's day better. Ariyanna quickly became a sign of hope and bravery for everyone here and in surrounding communities. There's no way to exactly capture Ariyanna's life or how she made you feel in words, she had a personality that was only hers and it was gift to everyone who met her. Taken from us too soon,

Ariyanna's Army

"The impression I hope I left is that no matter what happens in life and how hard it gets, you have a choice. You get to choose how you react to the things that happen to you. You don't get to choose if you get cancer a first time, or even a second, but you can choose to not give up, to accept the hardships with positivity. Never give up on this amazingly blessed life. Smile as often as you can."
 --Ariyanna Miller

Ariyanna's victories were Alcester-Hudson's victories as well. The community takes a knee after every sporting event, win or lose, in prayer for our sister Ariyanna.

The volleyball team rallied behind Ariyanna every step of the way. Ariyanna gave them the courage to carry on and to play for her everyday when she couldn't be on the court.

Our sister, Ariyanna

Painting the town orange

The Alcester-Hudson community shows their support

While Ariyanna was battling the fight of her life, the communities of Alcester and Hudson came out to fight right beside her. After every sporting event, win or lose, the players and fans took a knee to pray for Ariyanna. There were also several theme nights where everyone would deck out in Ariyanna shirts and the color orange to show we were behind her every step of the way. On February 3rd, the day was given the name "Ariy day." This was the day Ariyanna would receive her bone marrow transplant and Alcester-Hudson wasn't going to let the day go un-celebrated. The entire student body decked out in Ariy gear and released orange balloons in her honor. Ariyanna affected everybody in our communities and surrounding with her positivity and light. We are all proud to say we will forever be soldiers in "Ariyanna's Army."

We Can Do It!

Life Out

As another year closes here at Alcester-Hudson High School we can reflect on everything that happened throughout these infamous halls. We remember when senior Jaylen Dickau attempted to start his own senior prank, resulting in all the seniors parking crooked. How about when senior Lance Sogn thought it would be funny to put a dead raccoon in the girls bathroom of the ag room, resulting in a detention. Next year a new senior class will reign over the school and more memories will be made to add to the old ones. The time we spent in high school are the times we will remember for a lifetime. The ultimate question is how did you leave your mark at Alcester-Hudson?

The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that every entry, no matter how small, should be recorded to ensure the integrity of the financial statements. This includes not only sales and purchases but also expenses, income, and any other financial activity.

The second part of the document provides a detailed breakdown of the accounting process. It starts with the identification of the accounting cycle, which consists of eight steps: identifying the accounting cycle, analyzing and journalizing the transactions, posting to the ledger, preparing a trial balance, adjusting the accounts, preparing financial statements, and closing the books. Each step is explained in detail, with examples and practical advice.

The third part of the document focuses on the preparation of financial statements. It covers the balance sheet, the income statement, and the statement of owner's equity. It explains how these statements are derived from the accounting records and how they provide a comprehensive view of the company's financial position and performance.
